

Attention All Railroad Workers And Family Members

When a railroader suffers a work related injury, important decisions must be made immediately to protect the worker's family and job. Our law firm is dedicated to representing all injured railroad employees regardless of their craft or railroad employer. Since 1986, Martin E. Jackson has dedicated his career to representing and protecting injured railroad workers and their families in thousands of cases across the United States. Since that time he has represented, counseled, and tried lawsuits for thousands of railroad employees in over 30 states and in federal courts across the country. His practice is dedicated to helping working people who are injured by the negligence of large corporations.

Mr. Jackson is admitted to the bar of the United States Supreme Court. He is a member of the bar in South Carolina (1985), Texas (1991) and Colorado (2000), and Nebraska (2005). He is admitted to the United States Court of Appeals for the 4th., 5th, 9th, and 10th Circuits. He is admitted to the United States District Courts for the Districts of South Carolina, Texas (Southern), Nebraska, and Colorado.

Mr. Jackson continues to represent injured railroad workers across the country in all types of injury claims arising from: traumatic injuries and deaths, cumulative traumatic injuries, asbestos disease (including cancer), silicosis, welding fumes, hearing loss, diesel fumes, and other types of occupational exposures and cancers. He also handles serious personal injury and death cases arising outside of the railroad industry.

Martin E. Jackson is committed to providing complete, personalized legal advice and representation for railroad workers in need of assistance. We want you to know your rights under the law when you or a family member is injured due to railroad negligence. That is why we are pleased to offer a free consultation with no obligation whatsoever.
